Felixstowe Citizens Advice Needs You

Please consider giving a few hours a week to becoming a volunteer advisor

Our volunteer advisers are all fully trained to help, both face-to-face and over the telephone. They receive full training in the skills needed to help people deal with their problems and learn how to find the information the client needs from our extensive database. They are always supported in their work by trained supervisors and paid members of staff. We pay travelling and parking expenses.

Business Celebrates Fourth Anniversary

13 July marked four years since David Button Independent Funeral Directors opened the doors to their funeral home in Walton, Felixstowe.

The business was built from scratch and in that time they have overseen numerous funerals and built up a reputation of being able to provide a highly personalised face-to-face funeral arranging service, either at their premises at The Old Bank along Walton High Street or in the comfort of your own home.

The grieving family along with their loved one who has passed away are at the centre of everything they do and they tailor their solutions to meet individual requirements, thus ensuring they build a good relationship with those they are helping during the most difficult time of their lives.

Personalising a funeral is the final act of kindness for a loved one and David and his team ensure they take all the time necessary to make sure this happens.

The aftercare is very much part of caring for families who have sadly lost a loved one. As well as having bereavement get-togethers at least once a month they are also able to offer families free bereavement counselling which provides a telephone helpline, email advice, online chat facility or six face-to-face sessions.

This year sees David Button Funeral Directors becoming one of the 30-year anniversary partners for St Elizabeth Hospice in Ipswich. They have pledged to raise £3,000 and one of the events they will sponsor is the Felixstowe Christmas Day Dip. This will be the second year of being the sponsor.

David says: "It really is such a privilege to be able to care for someone's loved one, the friendships we have made along the way are simply amazing, being active in our community is something we will continue to do. Thank you all for your support."
